Here is an example of checking availability for an email name.

When selecting a password, Gmail requires at least eight (8) characters. These can be upper or lower case letters and/or numbers and/or symbols. Whatever you type, you must type it EXACTLY the same way every time. Also, Gmail will tell you how 'strong' your password is while you are entering it. The 'stronger' your password, the lower the chance someone will guess it.

Example of a selected security question and a typed-in answer.

After you click the "I accept. Create my account." button, as shown above, you will see this screen. (If you have made any errors filling out your form, you will see the form screen with mistakes indicated in red.)

At this point, you can get into your email account, if you wish, by clicking the "Show me my account" button.

When you first access your email, you are seeing your "Inbox" where mail sent TO you is stored. Double-click a message to open and read it.

When you have finished using your email, be sure to "Sign Out" by clicking this link.

If you want to SEND someone an email, click the "Compose Mail" link and this mail form will open which you can type into. When you are done, click the "Send" button.
